Outlook

With only two players gone from last year, Morehead State tennis coach George Sadler has every reason to look for another winning season from his Eagles.

Morehead State posted a 19-7 record in 1982 and returns four players who gained valuable experience last year. Add to that two freshmen and a junior college transfer, and the mix is there for success.

"We are stronger down the line this year," Sadler said. "But we are a young group, in that we will lose only two next year."

Even though the team is young with only two seniors, those who have returned have gained experience and have improved as a result.

"We have good experience in most of our boys," Sadler said.

Leading the returnees are seniors Martin Watts and Leighton Jones, whom Sadler describes as "seasoned players." Jones hails from Swansea, Wales, while Watts is from Old Catley, England.

Also returning are Fred Kangwa and Martin Locke, both of whom stayed in Morehead during the summer to gain playing experience by participating in area tennis tournaments.

"Both Fred and Martin have improved a great deal over last year," said Sadler. Both are sophomores, and hail from the continent of Africa. Kangwa is from Kalaluchi, Zambia, and Locke is from Marandellas, Zimbabwe.

New additions to the Eagle lineup include freshmen Paul Hope and Tracey Dunn and junior college transfer John Santoya.

Hope is from Maidenhead Brookshire, England; Dunn from Merseyside, England; and Santoya is from Santa Ana, California.

Losses for the Eagles include Philip King, who played at the number one spot last year, and Jimmie Lykins, who decided not to join the team this year.

"We don't have anyone that can play as well as King did, but we have three or four that are pretty equal in Kangwa, Locke, Watts, and Jones," Sadler said.

These four players are expected to vie for the number one spots in both singles and doubles competition.

Last year's squad finished third in the Ohio Valley Conference behind Murray State and Austin Peay, and boasted conference champions in Jones and Watts. Jones was the number three singles champ, and Watts was on top at number one doubles with the departed Philip King.

Morehead State's schedule this year includes a trip south to Georgia and Tennessee, where the Eagles will play six teams during the school's spring break. Other schedule highlights include matches with all OVC foes, and non-conference matches with rivals such as Louisville, Cincinnati, Kentucky, and Marshall. Trips to the Cincinnati and UK Invitationals are also on tap.

The Eagles

Martin Watts Sr., Old Cantley, England

In his fourth year as an MSU Eagle. Has been the OVC doubles champ for each of his three previous seasons. Played number two at singles last year. Has one of the best forehands on the team, and a great ground stroke. Expected to carry a big load for the Eagles this season.

Martin Locke So., Marandellas, Zimbabwe

Martin stayed on campus last summer, participating in several tournaments to gain valuable experience. He played at the number four spot in singles and at number two in doubles last year. Has a good serve, and is a great competitor. Expected to play at the number two, three, or four positions this year.

Fred Kangwa So., Kalalushi, Zambia

Also stayed in Morehead during the summer, played in area tournaments. Puts a fine topspin on the ball in both his backhand and forehand. Played at the number five spot in singles and was a part of the number three doubles combination last year, and improved a great deal. Is expected to play at the number two, three, or four positions this year.

Leighton Jones Sr., Swansea, Wales

OVC singles champ at number three last year. Expected to fulfill his position at number two, three, or four this year. An outstanding competitor who is a hard worker that loves to play tennis. Has an excellent attitude.

Tracey Dunn Fr., Merseyside, England

Lacks experience, but a willingness to work may make up for this deficiency. Not as seasoned a competitor as other team members. Needs college competition to improve his game. Time will determine where he fits on the team, but should be an asset to the Eagles.

John Santoya Jr., Santa Ana, California

A transfer from Santa Ana Junior College. An excellent competitor, but lacks top-flight competition. Works hard and has a great attitude. Will play at the four, five, or six position.

Paul Hope Fr., Maidenhead Brookshire, Eng.

Paul has great ground strokes, and an excellent forehand and backhand. Has a great attitude and works hard, hitting every day. Will be expected to carry his position on the team with success, playing at the number three, four, or five spot in singles and the number two or three spot in doubles.
